ROY SHOT.
A shooting affair occurred, Saturday afternoon, near Snow's Falls. Kall Hiltunen, 17 years old, was shot by his brother Edward, 12 years old, and died within a few minutes. The older boy dashed his dinner earlier than the others and went out in front of the house, loaded a 22 rifle with "long" cartridges and set it up against the house. He then went across the road about 50 feet and set up a small tin can for him and his brother to shoot at.
At that time the younger brother came out and picked up the rifle and not knowing that his brother had loaded it aimed at the can and fired. The shot hit his brother on the left shoulder an inch to the right and two inches above the arm pit as the arm was extended at the side. He fell forward and was dead probably by the time help reached him. He was taken into the house and the physician called. He found the bullet went diagonally through the body and lodged just under the skin in front and he easily took it out with a lance. The bullet was quite badly flattened, but the doctor did not think it struck any bones in its course.

A large number of the members of the Pythian Sisters visited the lodge at Yarmouth, Wednesday evening, singing to its praise the building was finished, which cost about $2,000, and it was dedicated by Rev. N. A. Cressley. The choir consisted of nine young ladies dressed in white, among them were: Apphia and Paulina Robinson, Charlotte Bolster, Leovina and Polly Caldwell and Ruth Durell.
Rev. Joseph Walker was the first settled pastor, being called in 1821, with a salary of $400. There were large additions to the church in the years 1830, 1831, 1832, 1840, and 1843; 25 in 1831; 17 in 1832; 23 in 1840 and 25 in 1842, 22 of these on one Sunday. During Mr. Walker's pastorate, which was a very successful one, the building was raised to its present site. The first site was chosen because it was then the most central as there was then no village of South Paris.
In June, 1835, it was voted to move the building to its present site and that a bell be put on so that a bell could be added. The garden of Abijah Hall was recommended as the best location. Mr. Hall generously donated the land and Mr. King, who built the house in the first place, moved it to its present site and no change was made except that the bell was put on. Seth Morse, uncle to Deacon Elisha Morse, donated a bell and vine. While the meeting house was being moved, services were held in the house owned by John Haskoll, in part of the house now occupied by Dr. Rounds. The cost of removal was between $700 and $800, and there was no difference of opinion as to the changing of the site.
When the house was rededicated, Rev. Mr. Williams of Poland preached the sermon and took for his text, "The Church of the Living God, the Pillar and Ground of the Truth." In 1845 a new bell was bought, the old one having become unfit for use.
In 1850, Mr. Walker closed his pastorate on account of ill health and died in 1851; and the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. J. A. Douglass of Waterford.
Rev. Horatio Merrill was invited to supply for a few months, and it was during the year 1851 that the pulpit and gallery were lowered, the windows enlarged, new glass put in and the seats modernized. Charles Porter oversaw the work. Alva Hareway and G. A. Field were the consulting committee.
In the year 1851, Rev. Francis Dyer opened his pastorate with a salary of $500, and the installation sermon was preached by Rev. David Dyer of Dorchester. On account of ill health his pastorate was brief.
In 1854, Rev. Daniel Stowell received a call with a salary of $500 and a present of his wood.
It was in the year 1855 that an organ was bought at a cost of $450. In the organ the violin and bass viol were used. Dr. Tykesbury played the bass viol and Jarius H. Jackson the violin.
Mr. Stowell was dismissed in 1858 and in December, 1859, the church gave unanimous call to Rev. Alanson Southworth, who was installed in 1860 by Rev. T. Loring of the Second Church at Norway. Mr. Southworth was pastor for about four years, and during the years of his pastorate the meeting house was repaired and improved on the outside and inside, the building raised and a vestry put underneath, an addition put on the south end and 24 new pews added, a new pulpit and pulpit furniture were bought, stored taken out and furniture put in, the gift of Messrs. Chase of Erastus King, sons of George King, who built the first house. Forty-eight new members were added in 1862, during Mr. Southworth's pastorate.
After Mr. Southworth's death, Rev. Francis Southworth, a brother of the former pastor, acted as pastor until 1869, when he was succeeded by Rev. W. Chapman, who supplied for a few

The Centennial Anniversary.
The 100th anniversary of the First Congregational Church at South Paris was celebrated Sunday and Monday, October 27-28, with appropriate services. The historical features were given at the evening service on Sunday by Rev. Charles D. Crane of Saylesville, R. I., a former pastor of the church. At the opening of the address, Mr. Crane spoke of the Rev. Dr. Bolster, who was intending to have delivered the address, but who passed away some few months ago. He spoke of the history of the church, which he prepared while pastor here and all the village as well while he was here.
He then began with the history of the church at the organization of the Congregational Society, which was in 1795 at Paris Hill, which was the only meeting in a radius of several miles. The people came on horseback and on foot as there were no wagons. The first movement towards the formation of a Congregational Church was in the form of holding family gatherings or reading meetings, as they were called. These meetings were held in what was known as the South schoolhouse, on the Colonel Swett place.
At these meetings Ezra Carey nearly always led in prayer and the sermons were read by quartermaster Hall, and later by Deacon Prentiss. Finally the schoolhouse would serve no longer, and at a meeting held in 1817, it was voted to build a meeting house. Previous to that time, on November 4, 1812, a church had been organized and in the records it is mentioned that a paper signed by Rev. Noah Cressley, pastor at Norway, contained a detailed account of the organization.
There were fourteen original members as follows: Ezra Carey, Cynthia Carey, Rufus Brett, Susanna Brett, Lydia Hall, Lydia Jones, Joanna Durell, Eunice Robinson, Lucy Robinson, Mary Durell, Amelia Hayden, Mary Holmes Boyden and Phoebe Brett. Of these original members, Mary Durell, grandmother of Mrs. Beaman was the last to pass away, and she died December 9, 1851.
In December, 1818, a bill was passed to incorporate the First Congregational Society in Paris. The incorporate members were as follows: Abraham Bolster, Israel Bolster, Jr., Anzi Brett, Rufus Brett, Daniel Olifford, Abijah Hall, Haven Hall, Asa Robinson, Jonathan Shurtlett, Jacob Takesbury, David Bolster, Luther Brett, Ezra Cary, David Durell, Ephraim Hall, Caleb Prentiss, Joe Robinson, Daniel Stowell, Daniel Stowell, Jr., Charles Whitman, and Isaac Bolster.
The first meeting was held March 18, 1817, with Daniel Stowell as moderator. There was some difficulty in locating the site of the church, and it was finally decided to place it where the schoolhouse was and to have the porch from the Robinson road. Then the men went into the woods and hewed the timber. When the timbers were ready, the day was set for the raising of the frame and when the framework was raised, verses were read as the custom by Martin Brett. In 1818, the building was finished, which cost about $2,000, and it was dedicated by Rev. N. A. Cressley. The choir consisted of nine young ladies dressed in white, among them were: Apphia and Paulina Robinson, Charlotte Bolster, Leovina and Polly Caldwell and Ruth Durell.

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well Earned Reputation.

For months the Advertiser readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Joseph A. Woods, Summer St., Norway, Me., says: "I am thankful for what Doan's Kidney Pills did for me. You can imagine publishing the statement I gave in their praise some years ago. I had been annoyed by backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I tried many remedies but got no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. I now feel like a new man. I also wish to say that Doan's Kidney Pills cured my little son of kidney weakness and made his health a great deal better."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

The Righteous Way.

Thou Master, Lord, who knowest all; Thou ruler of the world today; Pray bind me in thy joyous thrall; And lead me on thy righteous way.

Chorus. Could I but know the righteous way; The righteous way that God would lead; I can but see it from day to day; And for my sins my soul must bleed.

As humbly on my cross I bear; And rest the poor's royal wide; Light shineth round me everywhere; Yet darkness hovers by my side.

Thou too, who dash all things well On earth, me on the trail today, Send forth thy still small voice to tell Me ever of the righteous way.

"Don'ts" for College Girls.

First of all, the girl who goes to college must remember that the initial impression which she makes determines very largely her happiness or unhappiness for the first few weeks, says Leslie's.

Above all she should not arrive in an elaborately trimmed suit, a be-plumed hat and pumps. Such things may be suitable for rare occasions at home, but they find practically no place in the outdoor wardrobe of the wellbred college woman. The plain tailored suit cut on good lines, a tailored hat to match, and neat shoes create an impression of quiet good taste and appropriateness. This keynote of simplicity should be recognized throughout her wardrobe. Elaborate chiffon or net waists and fussy neckwear are of little use, for a college girl's room will never be designed for clothes which require careful treatment and protection from dust.

The New Commandments.

A humble Prophet of today went up into the Mount of Truth and communed with the Most High.

"What needs the world today?" inquired the humble Prophet.

"A new code of commandments," replied the Most High. "Commandments are not the highest means for working holy ends, but since men refuse to rightly profit by experience, commandments they must have! Take, then, to thy people these new commandments. Spread them abroad in the land, and see to it that they are well obeyed!"

And the humble Prophet took the commandments, went back to his people, assembled a great multitude, and proclaimed in a loud voice:

O Modern Mortals, and chiefly you who have power over brother men, take heed and obey!

Thou shalt not sell bread and milk at prices beyond the purse of the poor!

Thou shalt not make and sell drinks or drugs which sap the mind and sear the soul!

Thou shalt not rent vile tenements which endanger the lives and morals of thy tenants!

Thou shalt not forbid the right of equal suffrage to the wives and mothers of the nation!

Thou shalt not employ young children at tasks which rob them of their childhood joys!

Thou shalt not live and prosper upon the wages of ruined girls and fallen women!

Thou shalt not make laws to increase private or party gains!

Thou shalt not preach from press or pulpit for any purpose save the glory of God and the service of man!

The humble Prophet's voice rang loud and clear.

The new commandments echoed throughout the land.

And many who had called themselves saints or Christians fainted from fear and shame!

Women Pedestrians.

Account of a Summer Tramp Taken by Mother and Daughter.

The question raised in The Mountaineer a few weeks ago, as to what American women are doing in the way of tramping among the mountains has brought a return of a number of examples of excellent work of the kind, some of them accomplished by women apparently to the maximum of expediency, although that must be related to the individual. The tramps of a young woman, whose name comes as Mildred, a Boston girl, with her mother, are indeed remarkable, whether judged from the standards of women or from the supposedly longer distance of men pedestrians. Some of the itineraries are worth while outlining, as showing how much amusement properly constituted and properly outfit women can gain by themselves on the roads and along the trails of mountain regions.

"Last summer, 1911," writes the mother, a Dorchester woman, "Mildred and I tramped from South Weymouth just out of Portland, to Grafton, Quebec, passing through the White Mountains both going and coming, and touching East Andover, N. H." Portland is selected for the starting point of the tramp because the country about Boston is saved for walks of one or two days' duration. The itinerary by days of this tramp of last year will be of interest to anyone who knows the country.

Shortly after leaving South Weymouth the two took the left-hand turning, which is a short cut through the scrub to Lake Sebago. Here the road was lined for several miles with chestnuts in bloom, while the flying birds kept company with the women, and the way was a delight. Reaching Sebago lake the way lay through Richfield, Steep Falls and East Baldwin to West Baldwin, where the stop was made for the night at a farmhouse.

The second day was along the falls of the Sac to Eiram, from which the first view of the White Mountains was gained, and then the path lay for two or three hours through an absolute wilderness of scrub, emerging quite unexpectedly at historic Fryeburg. After lunch and a walk to the North Hampshire line was crossed to Conway and thence to North Conway for the night. The third day was through Intervale, Jackson and then the twenty-mile road through the Pinkham notch to Gorham and Berlin. It had been the intention to climb Mount Washington, but the mountains were wreathed in clouds and fog.

The following day it was an entirely new kind of country, rather flat and uninteresting. Provided the road is new, these trampers enjoy them only any kind of walking. The route was from Berlin to Groveton, and the fifth day was occupied in going along the Connecticut river to Colebrook. The next one was still along the river, crossing to Beecher Falls, Vt., then over the international boundary to Haverford, Quebec, which was mainly to show the child where three states and two great countries met in one point.

The mother speaks most heartily of the kindness of everyone who is encountered on such a trip. Here the customs officers went out of their way to show the sights of the country, and everywhere there is courteous and cordial treatment. "To see a little girl with quite a heavy knapsack," writes the mother, "stroll in at supper time, after a walk of twenty-five to forty miles over country roads and paths, without signs of fatigue, is always a source of amazement to the stranger, and having known the ice the evening before, we were delighted to find that the trampers were always so friendly and pleasant in companionship."

The return in the afternoon to Colebrook, the twelve miles in a pouring rain, might easily have been a catastrophe for less experienced individuals. The seventh day was occupied in the return to Groveton, for in this northern country there is little choice of roads and it was this or down through Dixville Notch. The walk was continued to the south in country familiar to mountain travelers, through Lancaster and Whitefield to Bethlehem, and the route for the ninth day was to the Profile House and through the Franconia notch and valley to North Woodstock, which was reached at 3 o'clock. Here it had been planned to end the day, but there was quite a deal more of experience to be encountered before bedtime. The topographic map showed a direct road southwest to Warren, which was the one selected to round out the afternoon.

The two women encountered it in all its roughness. The mother notes that beyond the Agassiz basin it proved to be not a highway but a stiff climb for three or four miles, in some places completely washed away, in others, grassy, wet and high, and becoming more and more desolate. "We did not mind that," the writer says, "but we were fearful that we had missed our way, for we seemed to be on an obscure path instead of on a highway on the map, and at the highest it was like a mountain top instead of on a road between two important towns. Mount Kinso and Mount Cushman on our left and Blue, Jim and Mooslaunks on the right did not seem to be much higher."

By all signs about us no one but lumbermen had been that way during the season and it ran deeper and deeper into the mountains. Soon the road dropped rapidly towards Warren, and we hastened on, a little anxious, for it was getting late.

Finally it led directly to an abandoned house, the first building seen for nearly seven miles, and we thought for a few minutes that our forebodings about the road would presently end in some deserted settlement. However, for the road here takes an abrupt turn and in half a mile drops to the iron bridge across the Baker river at Breezy Point. A short distance below quarters for the night were found, four miles from the railway station at Warren.

The next day was among the foothills of Mooslaunks, and the tangle of mountains above Plymouth along the railway. Wentworth to Dorchester and the latter and the last day it has been the intention to follow the railroad in a general way, but taking a cut through the woods at Danbury, the two came out at East Andover instead of at Franklin, but "nothing matters in tramping but having a good time and staying up health."

This trip was 333 miles in eleven days "and every moment of it enjoyable."

arrived the men were getting their guns to hunt an ursine intruder that had been frightening their cows. The next day it was through the woods and along the shores of Lake Umbagog to Bethel, they had crossed into New Hampshire—and in the afternoon, under the stress of a heavy dinner "we did only the thirteen-mile woods to Chandler's."

The meals of such trampers will be of interest to other pedestrians, and from the account it is evident that the noon feast was on graham crackers only on good tramping days, but with hearty breakfasts and suppers. At Chandler's there were trout galore, one youngster bringing in one hundred. The next day the walkers followed the river closely to Berlin and Gorham, and there was a short walk only the following day to Bethel, but the next one still was through sand and scrub forest to North Levell.

The next to the last day of this tramp was along the west side of upper Kezar lake, through tracks that were hardly discernable that turned and forked in most mystifying fashion. Throughout the whole day the Carter range and the eastern White Mountains lay to the right "and long after all the rest had passed from view Kezarsage seemed to accompany us." The final tramp was from West Sebago to Sebago Lake station, the total walk being not quite 300 miles in 10 1/2 days.

Mildred began her tramps three years ago at the age of 13. The first trip was 310 miles in 12 1/2 days, the route being to Gorham, up Mount Washington to Tuckerman's ravine, down the carriage road to the Glen, stopping that night in Chocoma, Center Sandwich, Squam lake, Bristol, around the northern end of Lake Sunapee to Newport and thence to Acuteville and back, tramping down to Houlton that day before taking the train. The plan for the present year was to try Katahdin, but circumstances prevented. A "bike" of the vacation time was, however, from Boston into Connecticut at East Thompson, fifty-four miles. —[Boston Transcript.]

Children's Column.

East Stoneham, Me., Oct. 11, 1912.

DEAR EDITOR:—I thought I would write a letter for the Children's Column as I am only eight years old. I have been to school two terms. I go to East Stoneham school. My teacher's name is Winifred Knights. I like him very much. I hope more girls and boys will write next week. LILLIAN L. GROVER.

Bethel, October 21, 1912.

DEAR EDITOR:—I will tell you about my birthday party. I had hair ribbons and some cards and books. I had the party down to my school and played games. I had a nice time. I am happy at home with my mamma and kiddy and my dolls and hens and chickens, and I have a swing. I like my teacher. Her name is Molly M. Stanley and she is good to me. We play ball and horse and hide and seek and step game. They count up to 15 and they shut their eyes and count up to 15 and if they see anybody they've them 12 steps and they have to be it. BLANCH E. KIMBALL. Age 10 years.

Have you ever waited for a woman to "get ready" to go anywhere? Of course you have.

The hour is 3:30. Maria is not ready. At 4 she "will be down in just one minute," but even at this hour if you could look into Maria's chamber, you would be in despair. Her "coriumps" taken down; her boots are unbuttoned; her narrow skirt is hard to get into; she can't find her bracelets; one cuff pin is missing; she has put arnica on her handkerchief; by mistake, thinking it Jockey Club, there is a button off her shirt waist; a doll deer, where she has been, and her lace scarf, and that coral neck-chain, and a shawl, and a white lace veil, and a dozen other necessary articles?

She has hurried so that her face is all in a blaze, and she is sure she looks like a washerwoman, and she seizes the powder puff and dabs a little chalk on her forehead, and hopes it won't be seen as she is going out to ride with a man, and not with a woman.

All unconscious of the trial's which beset your charming Maria, you are striving to do the agreeable to Mr. B. with the sound of his horses pawing up the sidewalk in your ears, and you know the old man is particular about his grounds; and directly you hear something snap, and rush out to find that one of Mr. B's horses has broken off a picket fence, and is trying his best on another by way of dessert.

Mr. B. consulted his watch, 5 o'clock. Will she ever be ready? He feels inclined to swear a little, but early piety forbids, and he tries to possess his soul in patience.

The door opens, she comes, radiant and smiling, in the loveliest of new costumes, so tight at the bottom that she creeps toward you like a snail, and he mentally wonders how she is ever going to get into the carriage; and her hat is so becoming, and her black lace scarf increases the whiteness of her neck so much, and she tells him so sweetly how sorry she is to have kept him waiting, that he feels infinitely obliged to her for doing it, and he feels for the moment as if the highest and most supreme delight of existence could be found only in waiting for her to "get ready."

We have not been greatly taken with the endeavor to send out an army of children to kill flies. The killing propensity in human nature needs no encouragement. Indeed we believe there is a far better way to get rid of the fly than by enlisting boys and girls to destroy them at so much a thousand. Get rid of the dirt and filth—that's the real foe. A waken in the young, and aim to whatever makes the fly pest. At the International Congress of Entomology, recently held at Oxford, England, a distinguished scientist declared that the true preventive of the house fly as dangerous to human life was the destruction of decomposing matter, dust, heaps, and such nuisances, at the time when the fly is breeding. He affirmed that it was a fact that in all countries where a proper system of dust and dirt removal was in operation, the blunder attributed to the house fly as a carrier were practically non-existent. Several times men have seriously interfered with the balance of nature by the destruction of certain forms of supposedly noxious life and paid dear for their blunder. At least let us keep the children from all our killing crusades.

W. B. Kidder of Peru was accidentally shot through a hand while on a hunting trip to the South Arm. With Mr. Kidder were I. C. Kidder, George Littlefield, A. W. Knight and A. B. McIntosh. The accident occurred before the party reached the hunting grounds. They returned to Andover, where the wound was dressed and then returned home.

NORTH LOVELL.

A "Well Fixed" Grange.

The members of Kekar Lake Grange, No. 440, of North Lovell are well pleased that they have got the hall paid for.

They also own a fine piano, settees and tables and some very handsome lamps for use in the hall, two good kitchen ranges and a very well equipped dining room, pantry, etc., and a comfortable stable for the horses.

This Grange was instituted in 1904. The meetings were held in the I. O. O. F. hall nearly a year and a half when, as they needed a larger hall they decided to build one. The hall is a fine looking and commodious building and an ornament to the place. It is useful in various ways besides for the Grange meetings.

The members have stood together and worked hard to pay their indebtedness and when this task was accomplished they decided to celebrate the victory.

Oct. 1st was appointed to have the hall dedicated and to give the patrons and friends a free supper and dance. The program was well carried out. State Lecturer B. Walker McKee, as the dedicating officer, assisted by the home members, did the work in a very impressive manner. From 6 to 8 a generous harvest supper was served to which all did ample justice. After supper dancing to fine music was in order and was continued till late hours.

One entered into the spirit of the occasion and it was a real jubilee.

The Grange is in a prosperous condition with a good prospect of new members and are hoping to have continued prosperity.

Perley McKee is building an addition to his woodshed.

Mrs. Susie Gammon and Mrs. Isabel Brooks are on the sick list.

Mr. Eliot, who is boarding at L. E. Gammon's, is about the same.

Mrs. Carrie Harbison is here for an extended visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Norway made their parents and brother's family a week-end visit.

G. W. Adams has a large crew of men cutting birch timber for him in Stow. He will haul the bolts to the Farrington & McIntire mill.

Rev. M. O. Battler of Lovell has been calling on the residents here the past week and held a service at the Grange hall, Sunday forenoon, and made plans for a Sunday school.

We are going to have a large number of men here often as he is earnest in his endeavors for the good of the community.

Enid McAllister had a serious accident while out hunting, last Thursday. Her gun was discharged prematurely and she shattered the ends of three fingers on her left hand. Dr. J. H. Hildreth of Watford amputated a part of the fingers and she is as comfortable as possible after the shock of such an injury.

Kezar Lake Grange accepted the invitation to meet with Suncook Grange at the Congregational church at Center Lovell, Oct. 20, to attend a union harvest service with the members of Watford.

The church was beautifully decorated and the sermon by the Rev. Mr. Battler was exceptionally good.

The Tyler Guild was entertained on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. W. Peterson.

The heavy rain of the past week was gladly welcomed by all as the fountains and wells are very low.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cole of Arlington, Mass., are spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives in town.

Mr. O. W. Peterson went to Portland, Monday. Her mother, Mrs. Stubbs, of Strong returned with her for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Adams have returned from Bridgton, where Mr. Adams has been employed for several months.

Selden Boynton, whose home was recently destroyed by fire, has moved into H. G. Wakefield's rent for the present.

Elsie Walker, who works in J. R. Libby's department store in Portland, is spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs. John B. Danforth.

Mrs. Sarah Whitney entertained a whist party, Saturday evening. Dainty refreshments were served and the evening much enjoyed by all present.

Prof. F. W. Files of the High school, J. L. Rowe, Alice Martin, Susie Garland, Helen Black and Miss Borjesen attended the teachers' convention in Portland and had the pleasure of hearing President Taft's address.

Mrs. E. A. Rowe is entertaining her daughters, Mrs. Page and Mrs. Goodwin of Peabody, Mass., and her grandson and wife and little great-grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Goodwin and little Maynard of Manchester.

GILEAD.

Albert Bennett, who has been visiting friends in Jefferson, N. H., for several days, returned Wednesday.

Mrs. Earle Jordan and two children went to Paris, Thursday, for a visit of a few days to her parents, Fred Jordan and wife.

W. C. Newell had the misfortune, Sunday, in alighting from his buggy, to severely sprain his left ankle and break a bone just above the joint. The accident will for a while necessitate the use of crutches.

Ex-Gov. John D. Long celebrated his 74th birthday at his home in Hingham, Mass. He and Roosevelt were born on the same day.

ALBANY.

George Cummings has got the foundation all laid for a new barn next spring. John Chapman & Son of Bethel did the job.

George Keniston has bought the Amos L. Bean place at Hunt's Corner and moved on. He is to work for D. A. Cummings at present cementing his well.

D. A. Cummings has been shipping his early apples to Boston and had them sold on commission and received fair returns from them. He has bought a older mill and is making some order.

E. T. Judkins has moved to North Norway on his father's farm, O. W. H. Judkins' place, which was his home in his boyhood days. We regret that he and his family should leave town for they will be missed in society and in the Grange.

Guy Cummings has finished picking apples for Fred Dunn of North Norway and gone to packing apples. There never was known to be so many apples packed and shipped out of town so early in the season. Most everybody has sold. There are only a few lots left for sale.

Alton Payne has a new motor cycle. The apple packers are at Ernest Brown's.

Mrs. Charles Marston entertained the Wildcat 25th.

Leon Newcomb had a very ill turn, the 24th, but is better at present.

Minnie and Bernice Littlefield visited Mrs. Roy Lord one day this week.

Harry Brown has made Will Rice a present of his work horse, Old Chief.

Jesse Littlefield has sold his auto to Alphonso Charles and Winnie Knight.

The Union Association of North Waterford closed, Oct. 30 and 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wardwell attended the Wildcat club at G. Abbott's, also Eliot brothers.

Ernest Payne is going to Worcester, Mass., to work in a belt factory this winter. He goes soon.

Roy Lord had the misfortune to break the running gear to his auto as he was coming home from Upton.

W. A. Lord came home from Upton, the 24th. The rest of the crew remain a few days longer in hopes to get a deer.

George Abbott and wife entertained the Wildcat club, Thursday night. A baked bean supper and a fine time resulted.

Jacob Dresser has a crew of men at work for his blacksmith shop, blowing rocks, pulling stumps, etc.

E. K. Shedd attended the funeral of his uncle, J. Hall, who was buried the 24th at South Waterford with the Masonic burial service.

Annie York, who has been teaching in the Paris district, closed her school, Friday, the 25th, for a short vacation. The school finished with a picnic.

Merritt Sawin went the 25th after his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hiltunen, who have been living in Bryant's Pond for some time. They are to move back.

W. H. Howard is helping Hubert Quincy on his ice house.

Mrs. Sarah Pray has been ill but is better at present writing.

Georgia Bradley visited her niece, Mrs. Grace Quincy, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Smart are entertaining Mrs. Louise Briggs.

Dr. Perry has been visiting her old neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dunstan, for a few days.

The Sabbath school is still kept up at the Harbor church with a good degree of interest. The church is still without a pastor. Sunday a sermon was read by Archie Ford in a very acceptable manner. Subject: Week Day Religion, by DeWitt Talmage.

The sad intelligence of the sudden death of Mrs. Augustus Colby of Denmark was a great shock to her friends in this vicinity. She went to the hospital on Monday, the 21st and on Friday she passed away. She is operated on for appendicitis. A large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. E. Hutchins are spending a few weeks in Boston and New York.

James Eastman has been spending his vacation at E. E. Hastings' camp at Lower Kezar.

Dr. S. C. Gordon and party have returned from a delightful 700 mile trip through the Berkshires.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hannaford of North Bridgton have been the guests of their nephew, M. E. Lakin.

Mrs. C. S. Barrows and daughter, Annie Barrows, went to Taunton, where they will spend the winter.

Pork will take a drop when Jerry commences to slaughter pigs in town.

Frank Mayo and family have moved into the new house on Main street.

George Leavitt is at Cold river, waiting for a shot. A bear for preference.

W. S. Lougee is on a hunting trip. Cold river, headquarters at Robert Eastman's.

Lumbering is the store talk at the present time. A large cut is expected this winter.

Mrs. Perkins has been in Portland the past week as evidence on a divorce bill from parties in town.

The bets in town: 2 to 1 on Wilson, 1 to 3 on the Colons 8 to 1 on Taft. Bets are all made on the town of Fryeburg.

Frank Thombs claims he holds the record of working more days in the kitchen of the "Arguene" than any man in the State for the past two years.

Ira Warriner is intending to put a few small cottages on his lot on Smith street. He lately bought a building of Chas. May which he will move to his place.

Good potatoes are selling in town at 35 per bushel, eggs at $4.00. People hadn't ought to complain at the high cost of living. Live hogs at $10 per pound.

Boys should be careful in firing rifles now. A bullet passed through a door on Whipple street, avenue, from some careless person shooting in the vicinity of the town.

Uncle John Eastman made a trip to Portland this week. He says he shall leave for Florida about Dec. 20, for the winter. Mr. Eastman is one of the oldest G. A. R. men in town.

We don't if there is a town in the State that contains so many good people as the town of Fryeburg. People here from 70 years up. All good people but the business quality are in the past. Young men boom business along.

Vice President Sherman died Wednesday evening at 9:45.

placed on the opposite side of the street, and one placed on the roof of Ridlon's store and at 7:45 Saturday evening the flag was raised.

On a net work 10x15 ft. appeared the names of Roosevelt and Johnson in large black letters against a background of white, and suspended from the net work was a handsome flag, 15x25 ft. The flag was bought by the proceeds secured from circulating a subscription paper among the progressives in town.

It was not decided until late Saturday afternoon that the raising would take place that evening. The exercises were opened by Albert J. Stearns, etc., followed by a short address by Hon. John A. Roberts, each of whom spoke briefly on the merits of the progressive party and what it stands for.

The speaking was followed by several addresses by Col. Theodore Roosevelt by means of the Victor Phonograph, operated by F. A. Cole. The addresses were as follows: The Liberty of the People; Mr. Roosevelt pays his respects to Penrose and Arelbald; The Abyssinian Treatment of Standard Oil; Why the Trust and Bosses oppose the Progressive Party; and The Farmer and the Business Man.

During the exercises there were cannon salutes, general cannonading and cheering by a good crowd of citizens which gathered for the occasion.

Thad, Lost His Cabbage.

One day recently a citizen of the village at work gathering the vegetables in his garden, accosted Thaddeus Cross, who was passing and offered to give him a cabbage which he gladly accepted. Placing it near the sidewalk, that he might not have to go out of his way for it on his return, he went about his business.

In the meantime a lady going to call at a neighbors house, saw the vegetable and thinking it had been dropped from a farmers load, took it up and carried it with her. When Cross went back, no trace of the cabbage was to be seen.

It is fair to assume that the next time he is placed in similar circumstances, he will not let it beside the road but will keep his eye on it till he lands it safely at home.

Complaint comes to us that boys in Norway village have been shooting and killing sparrows and other small birds with air rifles.

W. B. Walker, who has painted fourteen buildings outside this year besides the inside work, has finished for the fall. During the winter months he usually has work nursing the sick.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragged down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

"—Mrs. BERTHA MURPHY, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

OXFORD.
Lodge of the 16th District.

Craigie Lodge, No. 121, Knights of Pythias, entertained the lodges of the 16th district in convention here Wednesday night. In spite of the heavy rain there was a large attendance, brothers coming from Stoneham, Waterford, Norway, Paris and Mechanic Falls. District Deputy, L. R. Rounds of Waterford was present and witnessed the work.

The Rank of Page was conferred on a candidate by the degree staff of Craigie Lodge as follows:

C. C. Harry D. Farrie; V. C. Frank L. Walker; M. of W. Chas. H. Bumpus; Prelate, E. R. Holden; Master at Arms, Thomas Coulton; attendants, Ernest L. Carpenter, Harry Staples, Walter Pike, Albert B. Bumpus, Elmer Adolfsen, H. A. Andrews, W. A. Jane, J. V. Hunting; pianist, Charles Scribner.

Following the conferring of the Rank of Page, a bounteous supper was served in the Methodist vestry by the sisters of Craigie Lodge, and the time of the meeting of the Rank of Knight was conferred by Hamlin Lodge No. 31 of South Paris with the following degree staff: C. C. J. E. Everett; V. C. C. M. Johnson; M. of W. A. E. Maxim; Prelate, J. E. Kenney; M. at Arms, T. E. Barrows; King, W. L. Gray; Herald, E. S. Shaw; Seniors, E. M. Duham, C. W. Burgess, Walter Morse, C. W. Bowker, W. E. Kenney, T. S. Barnes, D. M. Stewart, A. H. Jackson, A. W. Walker; Pathagorus, E. M. Duham; Monitor, T. S. Barnes.

These lodges are noted for their excellent work in the Rank of Knight and the work of this evening was no exception to the rule.

There were more than a hundred brothers, over thirty coming from Paris, and the convention was a success in every way. The officers of Craigie Lodge for the present term are:

C. C.—Chas. C. Warren.
Master at Arms—Ernest L. Carpenter.
Prelate—Frank L. Walker.
Master at Arms—Harry Staples.
Keeper of Records—E. M. Duham.
Master of Finance—H. A. Andrews.
Master of Exchequer—Geo. Cash.

NORTH PARIS.

E. E. Field passed away at his home, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 23d. Mr. Field has been in poor health for some time but has been able to look after his business until about three weeks ago when he began to fail rapidly until the end came.

Mr. Field was a member of the Masonic lodge at West Paris and has been an active member in the Grange and lodge. He has always worked for the interest of the poor and in politics he was a Republican and was a member of the Universalist church.

He was the son of Frank and Sabina Andrews Field. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Ora and Dorcas, and one son, Keith, at one sister, Mrs. Frank Gossell of South Paris. Mr. Field was about fifty-six years old.

A GREAT BUILDING FALLS when its foundation is undermined, and if the foundation of health—good digestion—is attacked, quick collapse follows. On the first signs of indigestion, Dr. King's New Life Pills should be taken to loosen the stomach and regulate liver, kidneys and bowels. FRYEBURG.

Going West.

The goods of Mrs. Lura Buzzell were sold at auction Friday. People from afar brought lunches, and people from near ran out to bring in bites that they might not miss any of the interesting sales. Wm. Gordon, the auctioneer, was at his best, and his witty remarks flew in all directions.

The only sad thing about this auction was the thought that Mrs. Buzzell and her mother, Mrs. Harmon, are leaving Fryeburg for good, burning their bridges behind them. They start for Portland, Ore., Nov. 6, to join Mrs. Buzzell's son, John Buzzell.

Mrs. Harmon and her daughter have been in Fryeburg many years and have made hosts of friends. They have been interested in everything that pertains to the welfare of the village, and in their church, most unselfish workers.

Mrs. Harmon was Ordelia Rounds of Buxton and married Rensselaer Harmon of Gorham who was a druggist in Fryeburg for some years.

Mrs. Harmon's great grandmother on her mother's side was from the prominent McLeellan family of Gorham, who were the first settlers of the town. Her great grandmother was a faithful friend of the Indians, and at the time of the massacre in the town, the Bryans, another prominent family, were all killed, but the McLeellans, for the sake of their friend, were spared. Her daughter, Lura Buzzell, is the widow of Frank Buzzell, who was the son of Dr. John Buzzell of Portland.

Mrs. Harmon, who is nearly 80 years of age, looks forward to the trip with all the interest of a girl, and in her department Fryeburg loses one of its wonderful young old ladies.

From a Family of Doctors.

Saturday, Mrs. Abby Towle Warrenner passed her 55th birthday. She comes from a family of famous doctors. Her father, Dr. Ira Towle, was the early instructor of Maine's well-known surgeon, Dr. Seth C. Gordon, who pays him this tribute: "The two years I spent with Dr. Ira Towle have been of more value to me than any other two years of my training."

Dr. Wm. Towle, her brother, was in the Civil War, an assistant to Dr. Jesse Swift of Brownfield.

Her mother was Mrs. Sarah Clement of Brownfield. Mrs. Warrenner was one of six children. She married Chauncey Warren of Washington and lived some years in that city; but most of her life has been spent at Fryeburg. She attended the old academy during the teaching of the far-famed preceptor, Amos Richardson. She remembers her first party at the home of Squire Chase, and a famous time she had, along with her 14-year-old friend, Georgianna Southern, now Mrs. Geo. Barrows.

She also remembers the old Oxford house when it was kept by Landlord Knight, and looked after by his three main sisters, who made little braided rugs for each stair and placed them not straight up and down, but "kitty cornered" where each foot would be placed in ascending. She also remembers the dancing school in the old Oxford House hall, kept by Prof. Roden of Portland, which was attended by the Chases, Towles and Osgoods and many other blue-bloods of Fryeburg, and the Gibsons, Clements and Weeks of Brownfield. There they danced reels and contra dances to their hearts' content, and were taught to make their manners in the old school style.

Her brother, Jason Whitman Towle, has recently celebrated his 78th birthday and though Mrs. Warrenner was absent from illness, she was the life of the whole party from the unique gifts she sent and the wittiness of a famous poem written for the occasion. She lives with her son, Ira Warrenner. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Warrenner Lord of Windham and her sister, Mrs. Rattle Bradley of Chicago, have been with her for several weeks and have helped to make this birthday happy.

Maurice Pillsbury shot a deer, while at his home at Lovewell, Fryeburg, on Fred Pike and a lot of Augustus have been spending a little time in their camp at Lower Kezar. They got two deer, one weighing 125 pounds.

Paul Newman, representative of the Little, Brown & Co., with headquarters at Chicago, has been spending a few weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Newman.

Maine Indians.

Just as Many Now as There Were When the French and Indian War Was Ended. There are about as many Indians in Maine now as there were when the last French and Indian War ended, 150 years ago. There were about 1000 then; there are nearly that now. But if one were to go back another 150 years, he would find nearly 40 times that number, for William, Maine's greatest historian, gives the Indian population in 1612 or so as 38,000.

And was it the siff of the early settler that cut them down from 38,000 to 1,000? It was not; although, nowhere in this country, in the colonial days, did the smoke of peace curl less frequently than in the present State of Maine. For this district was the "dark and bloody ground" of New England. The thin settlements from Dover to the Penobscot for almost 100 years lived in terror of the torch and tomahawk, to say nothing of the Indians from the coast to the interior. It was an almost continuous conflict. Between 1675 and 1780 Maine was a battle-ground in six Indian wars, each one lasting from three to ten years. It was no place for the settler who was looking for a quiet life on the farm.

Now in Massachusetts there was never a fourth as many Indians as in Maine; and save during King Philip's 12-month war they never made serious trouble within the borders of the populous Bay colony.

But the Indians in Maine more than once destroyed nearly every settlement clear to the New Hampshire line, and at one time the entire population, some 6,000 people, fled in terror to the coast. Then would come a treaty of peace; and the land-hungry pioneer would return, rebuild his house and barn, and start life over again.

Going back to the days before the white man came to Maine, in a general way the Indian tribes had the same names as the large rivers. Well up these rivers were their villages, where they mainly lived save when they went to the headwaters to hunt moose, deer or beaver, or to the seashore for a summer vacation and a change of diet to fish and clams. Those west of the Penobscot were of the Abnaki group, and those along that river and to the east of it into New Brunswick called themselves Echechemis. All were of the Algonquin nation.

Now the peculiar thing about this vast body of 38,000 Indians is that they were not in any great degree killed off by the white man. Probably there were more settlers killed by the Indians than there were Indians killed by the settlers. These Indians died of the plague and in intertribal wars.

Of the 38,000 of these centuries, hundreds were slain in a fierce war between the Penobscot and Sheepscot tribes, then thousands perished in the pestilence of 1619, and thousands more later on at the hands of the Mohawks, who laid waste their towns clear to the St. John River. When King Philip's War began in 1675 not more than 12,000 Maine Indians were left alive, but this was twice the white population and sufficient to wipe out the settlements almost to the New Hampshire boundary.

Then, after a dozen years of peace, came the period from 1690 to 1724, outbreak after outbreak in which the white people were most terribly scourged by the savages. The paths of the settlers were banished, they were shot down in the fields, they were in the silent hours of the night to find their buildings in flames, and the huts of the savages breaking down the doors of their dwellings; none could tell where or when the prowling foe would strike. Consequently many families spent weeks together in the garrison, daring to cultivate the nearest fields. But in the brief intervals of peace the farms soon teemed with plenty, while the rigging saws beside the dashing cataraacts turned the dense woods into marketable lumber.

Slowly the settlers learned that the best way to cope with the savages was to attack them in their own lairs. Expeditions of 100 or 200 men made their way up the rivers to the head waters and "burned hornets' nests." And when a heavy force from Massachusetts Bay aided by a band of Mohawk Indians brought from New York wiped out Norridgewock, the great village of the Kennebec Indians, the whole tribe largely emigrated from Maine to the region of the St. Francis river in Quebec among their friends, the French.

Lovell's fight in 1795 at Pegawket, their village, broke the power of the Saco Valley Indians, and by 1799 not one of the Sokokis was left in the region and most of the Androscoggin were gone.

In fact, in 1799 not more than 1000 Indians remained in Maine. These were almost entirely Penobscots and Passamaquoddis, and with these enduring treaties of peace had been made. Though besought, they would not in the Revolutionary war aid the British, but remained faithful to the Americans. A letter from Washington is still cherished among them.

And when the men of Admiral Collier's fleet of 10 vessels attacked the "little rebel town" of Madawaska in eastern Maine in 1777, to punish them for the capture of the Margarett—"The Lexington of the Sea"—it is tradition that it was the keen shooting, the blood-curdling whoops of the Passamaquoddy Indians that was a prime factor in the repulse of the British.

In 1820, by the census, there were 379 Passamaquoddy Indians; in 1888 there were 526; and the last year there were 446. In 1820 there were 390 Penobscots; now, more than 90 years later, there are 307.

Both maintain their tribal conditions, and the Penobscots, at least, still dwell on the same village site that their forefathers did before the white man set foot on the soil of Maine.

PORTO RICO'S NEW WONDER.

From far away Porto Rico comes reports of a wonderful new discovery that is believed to have been made by the people, Ramon T. Marchant, of Barceloneta, writes "Dr. King's New Discovery is doing splendid work here. It cured me about five times of terrible colds, also my brother of a severe cold, and in his chest and more than 20 others, who used it on my advice. We hope this great medicine will yet be sold in every drug store in Porto Rico." For throat and lung troubles it has no equal. A trial will convince you of its merit. 50c and trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Noyes Drug Store. adv. 44-48

What time the latest flower hath bloomed, The bird hath sung forth his song, When silence weaves o'er garreted shaves, When weathers where you are, When scattered children rest beside, The hearth, and hold the mother's hand, Then come the children's simple tale Of fervent praise across the land.

No. XXIII.

At Head's Pond I enjoyed a very pleasant visit at the home of Ira Heald and his sister, Mrs. Clara Harriman (nee Heald). Ira, in addition to his farm, owns and operates the saw mill which was built by his father more than 60 years ago and with the mill, howe about 1850, he has been operated by himself or father ever since. Mrs. Harriman, whose husband died a few years ago, lives on the old home place where she was born 57 years ago. The buildings and surroundings have changed but little from what they were 50 to 60 years ago.

The pretty little hamlet nestling amongst the hills and the little lake with its boating and fishing attractions presents an ideal resting place for a summer home. The old saw mill which stood a little way below the saw mill and on the other side of the road is gone, burned, I believe. I remember that when a little boy I first visited the old mill, how I was impressed with the awful grandeur of the place as I listened to the wild rushing of the water underneath and saw the great mill stones in rapid motion. The man who could control all that vast machinery seemed to me to be almost a supernatural being.

I remember the smallest grist that I ever took to that or any other mill. A peck of corn in a salt bag and I went on horseback, following an old logging road through a long and lonesome timber road, Caleb McAllister was the miller a part of the time. I do not remember what the capacity of the mill was when there was plenty of water.

Charlie Andrews, afterward an M. D. at St. Louis, was to tell about taking grist to the mill and as he watched the slow motion of the mill he remarked, "why Cale an old hen could eat corn faster than you grind it," to which Cale replied with some warmth, "a hen eat 2 1/2 bushels of corn a day."

Deacon Benjamin Heald and his excellent family were for many years prominent in the religious and social life of the Center. He was a deacon in the Congregational church for quite a long time. Mrs. Heald died about 1884 and he about 1889 or 1890. Others of the older people living there were Uncle Josh McAllister and his three sons, Caleb, Wash and John, Asa and David Harriman, uncle John McDaniels and his three sons, Albert Stearns and George and Frank Harriman.

Before beginning a personal sketch of the Congregational church at the Center as I remember it, I will quote from Mitchell's Town Register of 1897, the following history of the Lovell churches, "Congregational church. On Oct. 6th, 1798, the earliest church organization in Lovell was formed as a Town Institution with the following members: Samuel Siggs (chosen the first deacon) Nathaniel Whitaker, John Whiting, Jr., Jas. McKean, Jr., Jonathan Butterfield, Josiah Heald, Abel Butters, Isaac Stearns, Tryphena Heald, Betsy Riggs, Molly McKean, Prudence Butterfield and Skate Whitaker.

The following month Josiah Heald, formerly deacon of a church of Carlisle, Mass., was chosen second deacon, in which office he has been succeeded by three generations of his descendants, covering a century of the church's history. Rev. Field Holt was the first pastor, followed in 1816 by Rev. Henry Sewall, and later by M. Hiddon of Tamworth, Jotham Sewell, M. Chapin, L. Ripley, N. Church, M. Porter and M. River, most of whom supplied from surrounding churches.

Sept. 27, 1817, the members living in the newly framed town of Sweden were dismissed for the purpose of organizing a home church, which was, however, not generally connected with the mother church for some years in employing a pastor.

Up to this time no minister had been settled by the town but on Oct. 14, 1822 Rev. Valentine Little was called by the town to settle among them, and on Nov. 9, following, the church extended a call to him as their pastor. By vote of the town he was given the right to the land set apart by terms of the grant to the first settled minister, this, together with the income from the ministerial fund, Sweden, settled in the call and were voted $8 100 of his time.

The ordination services contributed one of the grandest events in the history of Lovell and were attended by the families from a long distance from the neighboring towns. The ecclesiastical council formed at the house of Josiah Heald, esq., Jan. 21, 1823, and consisted of the pastor and delegates from Otisfield, Watford, Bridgton, Norway, and Paris. An elaborate program was carried out and Mr. Little was settled as pastor the following day. In this capacity he served faithfully until 1834, Jan. 22, when he was dismissed and David Gerry ordained and installed his successor.

April, 1832, the church was organized as a Bible class, which is one of the earliest incidents of this nature we have found recorded. Succeeding pastors were Rev. Israel Hill, 1837-45; Seidon Wentworth, 1847-54; Joseph Smith, 1852-58; Chas. Mongridge, 1858-70; Jesse F. Spry, T. D. Childs 1870-73; James E. Starns, 1870-72; E. P. Abbott, 1872-3; J. P. Stinchfield, 1874-7; Lewis Goodrich 1878-84; Josiah Heald, 1884; Wm. Sanbrook, 1886-92; E. H. Farnham, 1874-5; Earl B. Weed, 1890-7; Chas. F. Sargent, 1902-3 and Rev. Chas. H. Shank the present pastor, who was installed May 1, 1905. The present membership numbers about 80; twenty of whom are absent.

The early meeting house and town house was erected at the Center and the first used as a town house. It has been well preserved and stands a suitable monument to the faith of the fathers. The meeting house at Center Lovell was built in 1802, and the brick house at Lovell village was completed the following year. Rev. Stephen Sanderson, pastor at Sweden, supplied one-half the times at the Center church from 1833 to 1868, but the churches have generally employed the same pastor.

The Christian church at Center Lovell was organized Oct. 30, 1853, with nineteen members, by John S. Pottle assisted by Rev. C. A. Goodwin in 1893-94, by Rev. Lemuel Goodwin until 1897. During this time Elder Josiah Haley labored four years for the church, for construction of a church home which was erected and dedicated Nov. 14th, 1896.

In the spring of 1903 this building was raised and a vestry put in below. Rev. J. S. Pottle was pastor from 1897 to 1901; Rev. J. W. Webster, 1898-9; J. W. Card, 1899-98; Fred D. Webster, 1898-94; David Chambers, 1894-5; C. L. Baker, 1896-7; J. W. Orindell, 1898-1903; Chas. H. Shank, 1904-5; and Rev. J. W. Card since May 1, 1905. This with the Congregational churches constitutes the active religious bodies in town.

Services were held in Lovell early by the Methodists and regular preaching maintained prior to 1854, in connection with Watford. During that year Rev. D. B. Randall was appointed to Lovell, which continued on the minutes until twenty-five years ago. A Union church was erected by the Methodists and Universalists in the early part of the 1850's. The latter sect, also maintained preaching for a time, Rev. David B. Byther of Stenbea being the last settled pastor.

The Maine Farmers' Almanac.

"The Maine Farmers' Almanac" for the year 1913 is now ready for the public. It is as usual brim full of useful information. There is much sound wisdom. We quote from one page:—

The financial wastefulness of government in this country has long been notorious. America has inconceivably provided, for one thing, that modern democracy is not per se an economical form of government, compared with absolutism or constitutional monarchy.

There is no other great civilized nation in the world where so large a part of the whole body of annual legislation consists of "raids" on the treasury as in this country.

In the old days of kings and oligarchies, treasuries were often plundered, and the people were robbed by monopolies operating under royal franchises, but it is to be doubted whether under our system of tax gathering and appropriations of public money, a much higher level of financial administration has been reached.

From the beginning of our national life, the public resources have seemed to the people practically exhausted, the main problem being how to tap and exploit them. The public lands and the forests in our early history seemed likely to last forever. We should never touch the bottom of our mines it was believed. The cattle grazed on a thousand times a thousand hills and promised to graze there through all eternity.

As there was no conservation of natural resources, of course there was no conservation of governmental resources. Public sentiment in this country has never yet resolutely demanded and insisted upon the elimination of extravagance, waste and plunder in the working of the governmental machine, and until it does there is likely to be precious little improvement.

Possibly we shall wait in vain for the necessary public sentiment until the people as a mass learn the lessons of thrift, economy, and efficiency through adversity.

How to Be Well.

By Dr. True

Your stomach and bowels are the largest organs in your body.

And the easiest part of you to be abused. You eat all kinds of different foods, you don't chew enough, you bolt your food too fast. Then you neglect your bowels.

Consequence is you get a stomach full of sour, half-digested food and the bowels choked full of filthy waste matter, giving poisons off into the blood and body. Is it any wonder you feel badly?

In my practice I found so many people whose sickness came from bad stomach and bowels that I had a prescription put up and waiting for them.

This prescription became famous as a health giver, so I put it up, naming it Dr. True's Elixir, and you can buy it most everywhere. All druggists and dealers in medicine sell it for 35c, 50c and $1.00. I know a lot of doctors and druggists who use it in their own families, so you see what they think of it! Just remember the name, Dr. True's Elixir. It brings health to men, women and children.

WORRY WASTES

more energy than work many times over. A disturbed mental condition puts all the functions out of balance.

Life's processes then go on with the greatest effort and wear. To bring quick relief stop worrying if possible, take a desertspoonful of "L. F." Atwood's Elixir to act on the bowels. This soon eases the feeling of pressure and a condition of comfort follows.

Here's what a sufferer says:—

"I have used your 'L. F.' Atwood's Medicine and find it good for Headache, derangement of the Stomach and Liver, Constipation. It helps my appetite and relieves gas in the stomach."

A Husking.
Wednesday evening, there was merriment a plenty under the rafters of Chas. H. Andrews' barn, when under the light of many lanterns seventy neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were gathered at husking and with nimble hands stripped the husks from several hundred bushels of golden corn.

After which a supper of baked beans and brown bread, pumpkin, mince and apple pie and all the other things that tempt healthy appetites was served in the host's pretty dining room, where the assembled three score and ten were served in relays.

It is safe to say that no one went away hungry. Of course no husking would be complete without a barn dance, and the music and dancing rounded out an evening of hearty enjoyment.

months and was followed by Rev. Francis Knowlton, who received a salary of $750. The call was then extended in October, 1897, to Rev. J. H. Wheelwright with a salary of $600. Rev. D. O. Fuks preached the installation sermon. After a pastorate of nearly nine years, which was the second longest in the history of the church, Mr. Wheelwright resigned and Rev. Charles D. Crane was pastor from 1877 to 1880, and during his brief pastorate the church building was largely made over, the church was raised and a new vestry put beneath the organ and choir galleries moved behind the pulpit, and other improvements made.

The Young People's meeting was begun in 1877 with an average attendance of 25. This was the birth of the Christian Endeavor to this society.

In 1879, the pulpit being vacant, it was arranged with Rev. E. E. Bacon of Norway to preach on Sunday afternoons. In January, 1881, Rev. E. C. Ingalls received and accepted a call and remained as pastor until October, 1884.

In January, 1885, the call was extended to Rev. A. G. Fitz, who remained pastor until 1892; and it was during Mr. Fitz's pastorate that the new organ was purchased and installed in its present place. The organ was procured through the efforts of the Ladies' Circle and it was voted to call the organ "The Deacon Elsieha Morse Memorial Organ." Mrs. Clara Briggs has served as organist for a long term of years.

In October, 1892, Rev. J. H. Houghton accepted a unanimous call and he remained with the church until 1899, and it was during his pastorate that electric lights were installed.

In January, 1899, Rev. W. E. Brooks, D. D., began his ministry here. During his pastorate many repairs were made. In 1903 the ladies succeeded in completing the payment of the church debt.

In April, 1905, Rev. A. K. Baldwin became pastor of the church, and during his pastorate a parsonage was bought for $2,000, a new ceiling put into the church and new furnaces added at a cost of $500.

In 1907, the Christian Endeavor Society made a gift of $24 to install electric lights in the vestry. At the same time $350 was appropriated for the use of a music committee.

In October, 1907, Rev. A. T. McWhorter began his labors, and in 1910 his salary was raised to $1100, and he has been provided with a comfortable home on Pine street. His earnest efforts are appreciated by his church and the citizens of this town.

The services Sunday morning were held at 10:45, and above the decorations of green at the altar were the dates, "1812-1912" in evergreen with bouquets of chrysanthemums to adorn the platform. At the close of the morning service, a communion service was administered by Revs. Charles B. Crane and A. T. McWhorter.

The sermon of the morning was delivered by Rev. A. T. McWhorter, pastor, who took for his text, "And these stones shall be for a memorial," and of "Joshua setting up twelve stones" and for his subject, "The milestones of life." His sermon was brief but graphic, which marked not only the human history but the life of the individual.

The choir consisted of Ruby Clark, soprano; Helen Barnes, alto; Howard W. Shaw, tenor and George A. Briggs bass with Coral S. Briggs as organist.

At noon special services were held by the Sunday school in the vestry taking the place of the regular session, with singing by the pioneer chorus and a short historical sketch of the Sunday school by the superintendent, Charles H. Howard.

At the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society at 8:45, a sketch of the history of the Christian Endeavor Society was given by Mrs. Alma Clifford, and a sketch of the Junior work by Myra Haggett. Solos were rendered by Rose Clark, and duets by Ruby Clark and Helen Barnes.

The auditorium was filled at the evening service and many were present from Norway. A double quartette sang at this service, including: Ruby Clark and Mrs. T. S. Barnes, soprano; Helen M. Barnes and Jessie Tolman, alto; Howard W. Shaw and L. E. Sessions, tenor; George A. Briggs and Albert L. Dean, bass.

Mrs. Agnes Briggs Morton, read the Centennial poem.

Barnes and Jessie Tolman, alto; Howard W. Shaw and L. E. Sessions, tenor; George A. Briggs and Albert L. Dean, bass.

Mrs. Agnes Briggs Morton, read the Centennial poem.

A tribute to the old choir was one of the special features of the evening and it was sung as a response, the words and music were by Mrs. Clara Briggs, and a sketch of the Junior work by Myra Haggett. Solos were rendered by Rose Clark, and duets by Ruby Clark and Helen Barnes.

The auditorium was filled at the evening service and many were present from Norway. A double quartette sang at this service, including: Ruby Clark and Mrs. T. S. Barnes, soprano; Helen M. Barnes and Jessie Tolman, alto; Howard W. Shaw and L. E. Sessions, tenor; George A. Briggs and Albert L. Dean, bass.

Mrs. Agnes Briggs Morton, read the Centennial poem.
